TOMMY BURNS, Conqueror of Marvin Hart.

Whatever claim Marvin Hart had to the heavyweight championship of the world belongs now to Tommy Burns. Comparatively unknown in the pugliistic world, Burns sprang into prominence by defeating the big Kentuckian Friday night at Los Angeles in twenty rounds. Burns made Salt Lake his headquarters for some, time, but was unable to get a match here. Going from here to the coast he proved himself a good man, and when a match with Marvin Hart was proposed, Burns at once took up the offer.

It was looked upon as a nttle easymoney for Harf and his friends in the east, and the defeat of the claimant to the heavyweight championship will surprise to those who steadfastly claimed Hart was a worthy successor of James J. Jeffries.

Burns will probably go after Jack O'Brien for a match, which will be billed for the championship title. Philadelphia Jack probably will do a lot of side stepping, for in Burns he will not meet an old and worn out man like Fitzsimmons, but a youngster full of vigor, who will give the slippery Philadelphian a hard run for first money.

The outcome of the fight Friday night goes to show the poor class of material on hand in this heavyweight division, and backs up Jeffries' statement that his retirement was brought about because there was not a man

In selecting Smith for captain the university picked one of the best players at school.
